

Vendors:

David Fox Hog Fiddles and Such

Dulcimers designed to reflect their Appalachian heritage, with a modern look & a contemporary visual appeal. He also builds to custom orders, including banjos and mandolins. Contact him to design your own personalized instrument.

Email: hogfiddles@hotmail.com

Dwain Wilder Bear Meadow Appalachian Dulcimers

Dwain Wilder will again bring tools, materials and a workbench to the festival, equipped for repairs, refits and other mountain dulcimer work during the weekend. Schedule your needs with Dwain early by emailing dwain@bearmeadow.com. Be sure to mention "Dulcimer Work Needed" in the subject line to get into the schedule. And there may be time for last-minute requests also, depending on scheduled requests.

<https://www.bearmeadow.com/>

Gerald Heinrich Heinrich Dulcimers

With over 50 years as a woodworker, Gerry continues to experiment with different species of wood, with a focus on reclaimed wood. He builds both teardrop and hourglass Dulcimers and has designed a hybrid which offers the sweet sound of a teardrop with the stability of an hourglass. He continues to design beautiful instruments with various color combinations and sound hole patterns. He'd love to build your next Dulcimer. www.heinrichdulcimers.com

Ron and Dawn Jordan Wolf Hill Woodworking

Ron and Dawn will have stand-up and sit-down mountain dulcimer playing stands, display stands, music holders, fabric laminated cardboard mountain dulcimers, and accessories at the festival. They also make hammered dulcimer stands, hammers, and accessories – if interested, contact them before the festival and they will bring them. Email at bobbedardhammers@gmail.com or call/text (518) 368 8055. <https://www.wolfhillwoodworking.com/>

Ellen Pratt Dulcimer

Ellen Pratt will be back with an assortment of hand-made articles for dulcimer enthusiasts along with essentials for playing. Come browse her table for dulcimer pendants, earrings, greeting cards, ensemble arrangement books and Christmas ornaments. Additionally, Ellen will have a variety of picks, strings, lemon oil, fast fret, tuners, and other items.

www.ellenprattdulcimer.com

